

Stork Party Planning Advice

*It's a Date
Stork Party Planning*

A baby shower is a joy for everyone involved. Try a few of these things at your friend's shower and it will add extra sparkle!

Disposable Cameras or Designated Photographer

Capture the special moments. Have 1 camera per 5 guests. Let people know that they can take pictures. This will capture a lot of different perspectives. If this is not done, make sure that at least one person is designated as the photographer. As the hostess, you'll probably be too busy to take pictures and the mom-to-be will definitely want photo memories of her shower.

Gift Recorder

While the mom-to-be is opening her gifts, have a designated person write down each gift & who it was from. It will make writing those thank-you notes easier!

Comments Note-Taker

Have another person taking notes while the mother-to-be opens her gifts. This person will write down various comments the mother-to-be says while opening and inspecting gifts. For example, Then after all the gifts are opened, read the mommy-to-be's comments back letting people know that this was what was said on the conception night. Imagine how the innocent phrase "Wow! It's so cute!" can refer to other things when taken in a sexual light. She'll be blushing in no time.

Motherly Advice

At the beginning of the shower, start passing around a journal. In it, ask people to write some advice for the new mother. Present this as a gift to her at the end of the shower. It is helpful if you make a note on the shower invitation that this will be done. It gives the guests a chance to think of what they would like to write.

Thank-you Photo Memories

As each guest arrives or departs, take a picture of them with the mom-to-be. These can be given with the thank-you notes to the guests. Each guest and the mom will then have a special memory to treasure.

any occasion we touch turns to gold